Dear NASRA Sponsors,

March 11, 2021

The NASRA Board and membership hope this letter finds you safe and well. 2020 proved to be an incredibly challenging year for everyone, and while we had hoped that 2021 would resume some sense of normalcy after the impacts of COVID-19, we realize we are not quite there yet.

Because of the still vulnerable situation that faces our country, the NASRA Board has made the decision to no longer host our in-person conference in Indianapolis, Indiana this Fall. The Board is working on creating alternatives to the conference in the hopes that attendees will still have the opportunity to educate themselves and learn about the most recent advancements in our industry.

What does this mean for 2022?

Our commitment to host the next conference in Indianapolis will remain the same as we postpone our conference to 2022. A survey will be sent out soon to membership and sponsors to determine the best time to host the conference in 2022. We appreciate as many responses to the survey as possible especially from our sponsors who make our annual event possible.

We are disappointed not to have an opportunity to meet and learn about your most recent products and services. Please know that this was a hard decision and was not made lightly. We hope that you can join us in 2022 as we grow and work our way through the changes we have experienced as a result of this pandemic.

Sincerely,

The NASRA Board

Holly Bise, Nathan Gomme, Gary Widerburg, and Steven Peck
